SIGHTED THE GOOD SHIP CHRISTMAS

"Diamond Head Charlie" Reported the Aged Craft at the Usual Hour.

Early today the neat little sum of $232.50 will be sent out to "Diamond Head Charlie." It is the annual Christmas gift of many business concerns of Honolulu to the old man, now nearing sixty-two years of age, who has kept a faithful watch for the past twenty-four years on the movements of shipping about Honolulu and its sea approaches. There are few people, young or old, in the city of Honolulu who do not count themselves well acquainted with "Charlie." Not that they meet him every day and have a yarn with him but they know him through the constant signaling of vessels. The old man has kept watch and ward over arrivals and departures of the shipping here for so long a time that it is likely he will remain at his post as long as he lives.

Many people have an idea that "Charlie's" stand is right up on the top of Diamond Head but this is not the case. His place is situated way round on the Diamond Head road and not on the bleak summit of the extinct crater.

"Diamond Head Charlie."

It is said that the old mariner can smell an island vessel as far off as Bird Island, a sailing vessel forty leagues away, and an over-sea steamer half way to San Francisco, and identify it too! He seldom misses a craft, and it is a rare thing for him to telephone in a wrong name for it. From his station he is said to have scented out every nook and cranny of this side of the Molokai coast.

Five minutes before Christmas came in today the old man was telephoned. "Any thing sighted Charlie?" "Aye, Aye, sir!" was his response. "The good ship Christmas off the harbor, just taking the pilot on board. All's well on board and she's coming in with wind and tide in her favor. And a Merry Christmas to you, sir."

"Same to you, Charlie. I see that the business people are to send out their usual gift today."

"And its many thing I've got to be thankful to them for too," replied the old man, "for they treat me very handsomely. I wish them all a Merry Christmas and hope that they will live on to enjoy many more of the same kind. Well, good-bye sir, and a Merry Christmas to you sir!"

"You're keeping a sharp eye for the Silvertown?"

"Aye, Aye, sir!"

This year's Christmas gift to the Diamond Head watchman was collected as usual by Col. J. H. Soper.

Goes to Kahului Tonight.

After discharging her freight here and loading sugar at Kahului and Honolulu the steamer Nebraskan is expected to leave for San Francisco on January 3. When leaving San Francisco, in charge of a pilot, the Nebraskan collided with the United States Fish Commission steamer Albatross, doing considerable damage to the government craft but sustaining no injury herself. The Nebraskan sails for Kahului at six o'clock tonight.

Mauna Loa's Good Run.

Captain Simerson evidently did not enjoy the bantering regarding the speed of his vessel at the "Harbor 54 special meeting" for he took a peg or two out of the Kinai on the way to Lahaina on Tuesday. The Mauna Loa left Honolulu for Lahaina about twenty minutes later than the Kinai but beat the latter vessel to that port by about an hour's time.

Steamer Hawaii in Port

The steamer Hawaii which has been trading around Hawaii for several weeks is again in port, having brought a cargo of sugar and fifty head of cattle from Paauhau yesterday.

STILL BURN STRONG LIGHTS OFF HARBOR

Steamers Change Course in Order Not to Demolish the Jap Sampan.

"I understood from references that were made concerning the matter a few days ago that these Jap fishermen had agreed to keep away from the entrance to the harbor channel and to stop burning these big lights off the harbor but there has been no abatement of this nuisance and danger," said an officer of a steamer yesterday.

A few nights ago a big steamer had to change her course twice while off the harbor to avoid running down one of those sampans. Another steamer when being taken out of the harbor at night recently found that there was a sampan anchored at the harbor entrance. The Japanese in this sampan could see the steamer coming. In fact he could not help seeing her under any conditions and the steamer was going at a slow rate of speed. It was impossible to change the course of the steamer as it was still in the channel and in order to avoid smashing up that sampan and drowning its occupants the steamer put herself in some danger by going a trifle off her course and also by stopping her engines. The Jap made no attempt to move but set up a terrible lot of hollering. Well the bow of the steamer just grazed his boat and pushed it a little to one side. The sampan was not injured but had the steamer been going at even ordinary speed that sampan would have been stove in to kindling wood.

"I have talked with many skippers of deep water craft," the mariner continued, "and I find that each one of them would prefer to have a fairly stiff gale blowing off shore when arriving here at night as they are practically certain then that there will not be a couple dozen sampans a couple of miles off shore burning lights that would put a lighthouse lamp to shame. Do you know I have seen during the last few days dozens of lights on those sampans which are much more powerful than either of the red lighthouse lamps. The pilots light up the channel when bringing in a vessel after dark but their lights don't begin to approach, in the matter of strength, those sampan lights."

"I think it is about time that some pretty stiff rule was adopted in regard to these fishermen. Some foreign steamer will get on the reef through them some night. Someone will wake up then but it will be too late."

The Bishop Estate Wharves.

Permission has been granted the Bishop Estate to construct a dolphin at the entrance to its new dock, and this will also act as a protection for the Healan boat house and float. The new dock is now all ready for use and it is expected that the Korea will dock there on her arrival from Yokohama a week from next Sunday.

Sugar Rush Is On.

Big sugar shipments are now arriving almost daily from the other islands. The steamer Mikahala arrived from Kauai ports yesterday with 5,000 bags of sugar. The bark Alden Besse commenced to load sugar yesterday.

HERPICIDE

BEAUTY IS NEVER COMPLETE

without a thick, luxuriant head of soft, glossy hair, which is in truth "woman's crowning glory." The faithful use of Newbro's Herpicide never fails to produce hair of this character, for, by destroying the deadly germs that feed upon the oil of the hair root, it makes dandruff, falling hair and all scalp diseases impossible. It then promotes a new and thick growth to replace the old thin, brittle hair. One bottle will verify these statements. For Sale at all First-Class Drug Stores.
